

THE DAILY BEE COUNCIL BLUFFS.

SATURDAY MORNING, NOV. 28. OFFICE: No. 12 Pearl Street.

Delivered by carrier in any part of the city at 5 cents per copy. B. W. FLETCHER, Manager.

MINOR MENTION.

Refer, the tailor, for winter goods.

The Northwestern road is soon to put in a new bridge across the Boyer at Loveland.

Abraham Jackson, an ex-judge of this county, is lying dangerously ill at Loveland.

W. R. Olds, agent at the dummy depot, now draws the reins promptly over a new buggy horse.

Jacob Howarth has bought out the Colorado house, and his friends enjoyed an evening there last night.

The revival meetings continue at Saints' church, the congregations increasing in numbers nightly.

Frank Mitten had an overcoat stolen from Masonic temple. It was found in the possession of a boy named Pat Madden.

The Evening Globe is having a new roof put on its building to keep the water out. Water is not a favorite with the Globe.

Shepard, Field & Cook kindly remembered the drivers of the express companies on Thanksgiving day by presenting each with a fat turkey.

Preaching by the pastor at the Baptist church to-morrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, and in the evening at 7:30. Seats free. All are cordially invited.

The funeral of James Madison, who died of consumption at his home, No. 730 Washington avenue, on Wednesday, was held yesterday afternoon.

The two men and colored girl, arrested for mysteriously hanging about Officer & Pusey's bank late at night, will have a hearing before Justice Frainey to-day.

Permit to wed has been given to W. H. Ellis, of Weston, and Mary C. Duncan, of this city; Chris Tensmeyer and Louisa Huff, both of Harrison county.

At the parlors of the Creston house on Thanksgiving night Justice Schultz performed the ceremony, uniting in marriage Peter Nelson and Matilda Brandt, both of Silver City.

The funeral of Mrs. Wallwey was held yesterday afternoon. The details of this estimable woman is not only a sad blow to the family, but carries sorrow to a large circle of friends.

Some sneak thief stole a horse blanket from in front of Saints' church Thanksgiving night while revival services were going on inside the church. The revivals should be kept up. Also the police force.

As one result of the Catholic fair, Officer O'Brien now has a fine sealskin coat, voted to the most popular policeman. Frank Johnson rests him in an easy chair, voted to the most popular letter carrier.

The police are not very well satisfied with the result of their recent raid. Only six or eight out of the forty arrested were punished. Now that Judge Aylsworth is away and Justice Frainey is on the woolsack, they are thinking of making another raid, and see what Frainey will do with a batch.

As will be noticed elsewhere, a very important series of religious meetings is to be held next week in the First Baptist church of this city. The opening will be Monday evening. It is expected that from twenty to thirty ministers will be present to assist in the work, and the invitation to attend is so broad and cordial that those of other churches and different faiths will doubtless join heartily in the meetings.

A telegram yesterday announced that a wagon containing dry goods, notions, etc., belonging to Max Brody & Co., was on Tuesday night robbed at Persia, Ia. The supposed thief was a white man, who was with the wagon, was asleep in some farm house the wagon was robbed. The wagon is a very large one and contained a stock equal to that carried by many stores, and is run by Brody while his partner, Dave Friedman, manages their dry goods store at Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff are in the city, looking about with a view of establishing a conservatory of music here. If the necessary encouragement is given, they can doubtless be induced to locate here. They are both graduates of the Boston Conservatory of Music, and are thoroughly cultured and experienced. Mrs. Wyckoff very kindly consented to sing at the harvest home entertainment Thanksgiving night, and those who heard her were very favorably impressed.

The democratic organ is rather hard on its democratic neighbor. It charges that he sent a policeman to stop two poor workmen from working on Thanksgiving day, the officer threatening them with arrest if they continued in their endeavors to earn enough for a dinner. This can hardly be credited. The mayor has always boasted of being such a friend of the workmen. He has hired brass bands, and let the county furnish the court house for meetings, so that the workmen might have a chance to listen to his promises of what he would do when he got to the mayor's office. He has talked to them three hours at a stretch, and never charged them a cent. He has advertised the city as a cow-boy town, so as to scare other laborers from coming here, thus giving the residents all the work. His religious scruples are well known, and while he keeps all the saloons closed Sundays, will not allow any gambling houses or other places of sin in the city, yet it is hardly to be believed that he would keep laborers from earning a dollar on Thanksgiving day.

FOOLS AND THEIR MONEY.

How the Steerers Help to Get Them Soon Parted.

MAKING UP WINTER SUITS.

A Christian Conference Next Week—The Harvest Home Entertainment—Barrett's Record as a Horse Thief—Other Gleanings.

Steering Suckers.

"Who put you onto that steerer that you wrote up the other day," asked a sporting man of the Bee scribe.

"The source of information was not, of course, given, but yankee-like the question was answered by asking another question: 'Why, was not the article all right?'"

"All right! Why, yes, it was dead to rights. That's what made me curious to know about how you got it. It must have been given you by some one who knew just what he was talking about. No chump gave that away. It must have been given to you in the ring. I believe I could guess the fellow."

He was not out to bother his brain about it. Then he went on: "You talking of steerers and cappers. You have no idea how much steering is going on here. There is one gambling house on Broadway which has a raft of them—follows you wouldn't mistrust."

"Don't the police know them?" "Know them? They know a good many of them."

"Why don't they run them in?" "The great trouble is you can't find them guilty if you should arrest them. It is almost impossible to get the evidence. You see, these steerers have other business. For instance, one waiter in one of the counting houses is one of them. He gets a chance to hook into more or less suckers. When he gets one he strolls about town until finally he lands the sucker in this house."

"If the sucker loses any money in the house the waiter gets a share of it, a $5 or a $10 bill perhaps. Us fellows know it just as well as we know anything, but it is no use for the police to arrest the steerer, for he wouldn't own up, and of course the proprietor of the house, who gives him the share, wouldn't squeal. There are fellows in other kinds of business—clerk stores, hack drivers, in fact, different sorts of fellows, who steer suckers into this place. A fellow who has some regular business can catch a sucker easier than a regular steerer who hasn't done anything else. You see, a sucker falls in with a fellow whom he knows has got some business, and he doesn't suspect he is being steered. They stroll around together and finally drop into the hole. If he doesn't play, there is nothing lost. The steerer is out only his time, and his time is worth nothing. If the sucker loses any money the steerer drops around and gets a tip."

"What if the sucker should chance to make a winning?" "Oh, get out. Do you suppose those fellows would let a sucker get a winning—one that would amount to anything? Not much. When once a sucker gets in, they never let him strike the ground until he is done up."

"What is the game which catches suckers best?" "Stud poker. That's regular robbery. It isn't gambling. It played straight the percentage that goes to the house is a big thing, almost robbery. A good game ought to bring into the house at least $10 in an evening. That's straight. But the way it is generally played it all comes to the house, and the sucker is left with a few cents. There ought not to be a stud game allowed in the city. It's dead robbery."

"What kind of people generally get caught in this?" "Strangers, mostly now. Around town everybody is into it. They have been robbed so much that they can't get any more. The sucker is taken from out of town, or fresh importations. Hardly a day passes but what some fellow gets robbed of a pretty snug little roll. I tell you that the stud game gives so many chances for robbery that it ought to be tried out. Then there ought to be some way of making gambling houses run without having these steerers. If it wasn't for them these robbery games would soon play out. They couldn't be run. I'll give you some pointers in a few days that will surprise you. I'll show you some fellows whom you haven't any idea are steering, but they are just as sure as the sun will rise. I can prove it. I caught one of them, slick, the other day. The sucker wouldn't believe that he had been steered by his friend. The fact was proved to him, however, by the means of a gold eagle, which was peculiarly marked. The gold piece had been lost by the sucker on a game of stud, and while his friend had no money that night he was morning he had this identical gold piece. Of course he got it as his share for steering the sucker into the game. That's the way they got it. It was a surprise party to the sucker, who had lost about $135."

Having put in a complete new stock of clothing, furnishing goods, hats, caps, etc., Fox & Hughes, No. 915 Main street, invite the public to give them a trial. Their expenses are small, and they can afford to sell cheap.

Winter Suits. A number of new cases have been started in the district court, the last day of service falling on Tuesday last.

J. M. Palmer commences action against the Springfield Fire and Marine Insurance company, to recover $1,000 insurance on a frame building, located on the corner of avenue A and sixteenth street, which burned some time ago.

John McCarthy sues Jim Foley for $150, which he claims is due him on a verbal agreement, by which he has been taking care of a child of Foley's.

S. L. Caster commences action against the defunct Iowa Mutual Live Stock insurance company, to recover on a $110 policy.

W. H. Mitchell wants a divorce from his wife, Susan. They were married in Omaha, July 30, 1884. He claims that nine days later she left him and set up a house of her own in Omaha, which bears no very savory reputation.

W. H. Wallace also wants a divorce. He claims that his wife, Hilda, is a bad woman. He was married to her in November, 1874, and they have three children. His petition states that on the 4th of July last she skipped out with another man, whom he thinks is Nelson Houston, and that she has been stealing by Houston more or less ever since.

Council Bluffs Talent. The entertainment given at the risk for the benefit of the poor of the city proved a great success. Besides the satisfaction of adding a most worthy cause, those who attended were given a most enjoyable evening's entertainment. The programme spoke well for the culture of Council Bluffs, it being presented by home talent. Mr. Marshall Treynor sang an excellent solo, he being supported by a large chorus of well trained voices. Mrs. Wyckoff created much enthusiasm by her song and was called on to respond to an encore. Mrs. Lyon gave "Mabel, With Her Face Against the Pane." The recitation was admirably given, and in response to a well merited encore she gave another recitation, which called forth hardly less enthusiasm. She has a remarkably good, pleasing manner, and the absence of all ostentation or pretension, was particularly refreshing in this age of ranting elocution. Prof. Effert favored the audience with an excellent piano solo. Frank Badollet gave two very sweet flute solos. Miss Oliver, in whose voice Council Bluffs people take a special delight, sang "From Eden." She sang admirably, and the audience was, as usual, enthusiastic over their favorite. She was called out again, and gave "Genevieve," charmingly. There were other pleasing features to the programme, a very appropriate recitation and representation of "Prayer and Potatoes," and the closing tableau of "Triumph of Agriculture," was very fine. As a closing to the programme was a "harvest home" entertainment it was very fitting.

Barrett's Record. The Bee gave the other day the details of a shooting scrape in South Omaha, in which John Barrett was a prominent participant. This man Barrett is known here as being a hard case. He came from a very respectable family, but went to the bad some years ago. His father figured in one of the most hardy contested tax cases on record in this state. The case went to the supreme court, and is often quoted in contests now. Young Barrett was first arrested here six years ago, for stealing a horse of William Harms. He was tried in June, 1879, but the jury disagreed. In the following December he was tried again, and the jury found him guilty. He was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. Since his release, he has been engaged in a like charge. This was last spring, but he was set free on account of an insufficiency of evidence. Among the incidents recalled by his fresh notoriety, is the fact of his being kicked out of the office of his attorney at one time. Col. Daily was defending him. He was very anxious for his trial to take place, but the case was continued. In talking it over in Col. Daily's office, the intimate details of the case were standing in with the state's attorney. The colonel asked him if he meant to say that he, his attorney, were not going to take the case to trial, and finally drop into the hole. If he doesn't play, there is nothing lost. The steerer is out only his time, and his time is worth nothing. If the sucker loses any money the steerer drops around and gets a tip.

The electric belt of Judd & Smith, 30 Fourth street, Council Bluffs, positively cures rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, piles, paralysis, indigestion, fits, cold feet, nervousness, headache, kidney and liver complaints, loss of vitality, lead poisoning, lack of nerve force and wasting weakness of those diseases of a personal nature in male and female.

Police Pointers. There was a regular Gerstenberg row Thanksgiving night at the saloon which has been the scene of so many such rackets lately. The place ran for 2 1/2 hours in George Bradford's name. Then an injunction was served against him. Then Gerstenberg became the ostensible proprietor. The council revoked Gerstenberg's license, the place being so notorious. Now it is run by some relative of Bradford's, although he and Gerstenberg seem interested alike. The place ought to be cleaned out, as no license has been paid if it seems that the doors might be closed. On Thursday night there was a crowd in there, and as usual a row broke out. It is said that some would not pay for drink, and the row began. The bartender insisted, and to bother him still more, some of the crowd put some of the glasses in their pockets. Bradford insisted on their returning the glasses, and then another row started. Bradford was badly used up, his face being battered until it lost all its appearance of humanity. When the row broke out Gerstenberg rushed out of the door, fired his revolver several times, and skipped out of danger. The police arrested six men, but on the trial only two were found guilty, Pat Donahue and Frank Kane. The others were discharged, and the costs taxed up to Bradford.

John Conner was brought before the court yesterday morning on a charge of being drunk. He admitted that he had been drinking, as well as giving thanks, but declared he got into trouble only by means of a policeman. The policeman, according to his story, strode up Main street with him, talking a drink here and there, until he had steered him near the police station, when he suddenly arrested him and locked him up. The magistrate looked for the names of the officer and found it to be Fred Nugent. That settled it. Nugent's well known record as a prohibitionist officer gave the lie to the story. $7.00.

Three little boys were brought before the bar. They were John Thompson, W. Wills and John Wills. They had been captured, also, by Nugent, who had evidently had a night of it. These little fellows had been sleeping in an alley. They were turned out on the cold world again.

Three older boys, claiming to be from Des Moines, were brought to the front for stealing a pair of shoes, on Main street. Two of them were found guilty of larceny, and the other for vagrancy. They were sent to the county jail for thirty days. They gave their names as Joe Burke, Ed Stewart and Frank Smith.
